Social being is reflected by the art, music, media, words & the flowering life inside the garden and beyond. SEE THE PREVIEW AND LEAVE A COMMENT! PROGRAM DESCRIPTION: A non linear trip spanning 2001 - 2005 from Petit Versailles' Lower East Side location to Amsterdam Holla The program begins in 2001 when Flowering Dogwood Trees are planted the garden, dedicated to the lost rescue workers from the neighboring firehouse on Second Street. We flashback to the events of the previous year viewing the fall of the Trade Towers. Swept into the streets below a rooftop vantage of the gardener's, the shock of immediacy becomes an international trauma as responses to ensuing war and the 2004 RNC in NYC pervade parks and gardens across the city. Back at LPV the outcry is expressed in multi media projections by Serhat Koksai, a media artist from Istanbul. The episode concludes with a rendition of John Lennon's "Give Peace A Chance" by old school borscht belt entertainer Jackie Kaye.
